

released me and whispered in my ear. "I'm your secret admirer." He continued, "When you're rich like me it's hard to find someone to love you for yourself. And when I saw you, something came over me, I just had to meet you. So I grabbed an apron and pretended to be a waiter."

We spent the rest of the night talking, dancing and stealing kisses under the moonlight. It's dawn now and in a few hours we're going swimming. And tomorrow and the day after? Who knows, but I have Pleasure Island to thank for opening my heart to true love.

2061037714

It's amazing where you can find love - especially when you're not looking.